NAME REGISTRATION OFFICERS OF THE COUNTY

The county clerk's office is preparing registration supplies for the election of November 3, which will be ready for distribution to the registration officers within the next few days. The law requires that the supplies shall be in the hands of the registration officers thirty days before the first day of registration to give them ample time to copy the names from the official registration sheets, August 10, 18, 29 and October 6, 7, 13 and 27 are the registration days.

Supplies for the special road election of July 7, in eight districts of the county, have been prepared and are ready for the judges as soon as they call at the clerk's office and qualify. It is said by the county clerk that there has been but one judge so far who has refused to act. The vote in the districts will be on the question of having a tax levied by the county commissioners for the improvement of the roads in the districts aside from the road work that may be done by the commissioners on the state roads that intersect a district.

Huntsville has a state road passing through the town, but the citizens here have called for an election to determine whether an additional tax shall be levied to macadamize another street through the town.

Following are the registration officers of the county, including Ogden, for the November election:

KANSAS CITY PEOPLE WILL SPEND A DAY IN OGDEN

The Kansas City party of railroad agents passed through Ogden this morning en route to Salt Lake City, where the members expected to pass the day in sight-seeing and to go from that city this evening to the Yellowstone Park.

It was first expected that the party would consolidate with the Omaha party at Ogden this afternoon and continue on to the national park from here, but its itinerary was changed almost at the last moment. General Agent W. H. Chevers not being informed of the change until last night. The Kansas people, however, will visit Ogden on their return trip and are scheduled to arrive on the morning of July 3, when they will be breakfasted at the Union depot cafe and will afterward be taken for an automobile trip through Ogden canyon to Huntsville, thence back to the mouth of the canyon and north to North Ogden. On the return to the city, they will proceed to the Sugar factory in Wilson and into Ogden via Wilson Lane and the Twenty-fourth street viaduct. The ride is expected to occupy their time until 1 p. m. and at that time they will be dined at the Weber club.

The Omaha party, consisting of 22 agents, arrived in Ogden at 3:35 p. m. and are enjoying the beauties of Ogden canyon, with the added novelty of seeing an excursion crowd at the Hermitage, today being the day of the annual outing of the North Weber stake Sunday schools.

This evening the party will be guests of the Union Pacific at a dinner in the Weber club, and will leave for the north at 8:30 p. m.

LITTLE BOY DIES AS RESULT OF HIS INJURIES

Daniel McBride, the 14-year-old son of Stephen and Sophia Staley McBride, died at 3 a. m. today at the family home in North Ogden. His death resulted from the effects of an injury received a year ago last month when he was knocked down and run over by an automobile driven by W. E. Quillman of Ogden. The accident occurred in front of a store at North Ogden, where the boy was playing with some companions of his own age and since that time the victim had suffered almost continuously. The boy's skull was fractured and he was operated on five times during the past year in an effort to save his life.

The parents of the boy entered suit against Quillman in the district court for the injuries sustained and the suit is still pending.

Daniel was born at Hyrum, Cache county, where he resided with his parents for a number of years and the family later moved to North Ogden. The body was removed to the Larkin mortuary to be prepared for burial and the funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Monday, in the North Ogden meeting house, with Bishop Barker presiding and the body will be shipped to Hyrum for interment. Friends may view the body at the Larkin chapel tomorrow afternoon and the residence of Edward Marshall at North Ogden tomorrow evening and Monday until 1 p. m.

H. L. HELBERT CASE IS TO COME UP ON MONDAY

M. L. Hilbert was arraigned this morning in the municipal court on the charge of petit larceny. He entered a plea of not guilty and his hearing was set for Monday morning. Hilbert was brought to Ogden Thursday afternoon from Salt Lake City, by Detective Charles Pincock after he had been arrested there with a stolen bicycle in his possession. The bicycle belonged to E. F. Wecker of Marriott and was valued at $45.

Mike O'Brien, a drunk, was sentenced to serve five days in the city jail. According to the arresting officer, in addition to being drunk, he was "mooching" on the street. William Park, a drunk, received a suspended sentence, and A. W. Shields, who was tried on the charge of disturbing the peace, had his case taken under advisement.

The following letter was received today at the Weber club from the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' association, as an appreciation of the courtesies extended its members on their recent visit to Ogden.

"Gentlemen: On behalf of the association members who participated in the recent trade excursion, I wish to extend to you our sincere and hearty thanks for the cordial reception which you extended to us at the time of our visit to your city. Our members will long remember the delightful trolley ride which we had up the famous Ogden canyon. Being somewhat tired as the result of the western trip, the writer wishes particularly that he might return for a stay of a week or two at The Hermitage. We, indeed, all of us appreciated your courtesy and hospitality. Very truly yours, Robert L. Frost, Assistant Secretary."

HAZEL TOUT OF OGDEN WHO WILL STAR IN THE DEBUTANTE

Hazel Dawn, who is Hazel Tout of Ogden, is to be one of the new stars next season under John C. Fisher's management. She will begin her season in "The Debutante" at the New National Theater in Washington, D. C., on September 28. "The Debutante" is by Harry B. Smith who has written the book, Robert B. Smith, who has provided the lyrics and Victor Herbert, who has composed the music. The story of the new opera is laid in London and Paris with Miss Dawn in the role of a young American girl, who is being much sought after by an impetuous nobleman on account of her fortune. Elaine, however, the character played by the star, is affianced to an American, and although he has been neglectful, on account of an affair with a French actress, she is very much in love with him. In order to teach him a lesson she runs away to Paris and there makes her debut as a musician before a critical audience. This incident gives Miss Dawn an opportunity to again play the violin, an instrument on which she has rare proficiency and with which she made a "hit" when she introduced it in "The Pink Lady."

Mr. Fisher promises a production of "The Debutante" that will be superior in every way and claims that it will be a veritable "musical comedy of fashion." After a short road tour Miss Dawn will be seen on Broadway in her new play. Some of those who are engaged to support the new star are Alan Modie, Will West, William Danforth, Stewart Baird, Robert G. Pitkin, Joe Barnett, Maude Odell and Sylvia Jason.

Hazel Dawn is telling her friends that she is delighted with the fact that in the new musical comedy which Harry B. and Robert B. Smith have written for her, that she is to be a simple maiden instead of a coquettish Parisienne. In both "The Pink Lady" and "The Little Cafe," the only two musical plays in which she has appeared in her native land, Miss Dawn has been obliged to impersonate young ladies of decidedly lively disposition. Now she is to be a demure and pleasant American girl.

The story has often been told about how the prima donna came to play the violin in "The Pink Lady"; that it was quite by accident that the management discovered that she was able to draw harmony from its strings and that she was allowed to introduce it at the last minute.

There is another story which has not been told. The reason why Hazel Dawn forsok the violin for musical comedy. It was because of a broken arm. When Hazel was just finishing her school days in England—her parents had destined her for a career as a musician—that one day in a foot race with the other girls she tripped and fell and when picked up it was found that her arm had been broken. Since it was the left arm that had been fractured, it was many a day before she was able to again finger the strings of her violin, and it was then that she decided to become a vocalist instead of an instrumentalist. Shortly after her recovery, George Edwards engaged her for one of his musical comedies in London, and so it was that Hazel Dawn, violinist, became Hazel Dawn, prima donna. The broken arm has since been knitted, but the blonde beauty is irrevocably committed to musical comedy.

Hazel Dawn has recently fallen a victim to the baseball fever and has been a constant visitor at the New York games. The actress, however, says baseball is either played all wrong or else that there is some mistake in the theater manager's slogan of "Give the public what they want." "In baseball," she declares, "it is so easy to tell just what the public wants because they shout it to the players all through the game. For all this, the men don't seem to do as they are told. Such cries as 'hit the ball,' 'take him out,' 'give us a home run,' 'kill the umpire,' are seldom heeded.

"I am wondering," inquired the prima donna, "just what kind of a game it would be if the players obeyed all the instructions that are hurled at them from the grandstand and bleachers."

SCANDINAVIANS OF CITY AND COUNTY MEET

COUNT LOCHWITZKY ON CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

Ogden Chautauqua is fortunate in securing as an attraction Count Alexander M. Lochwitzky. The count is one of the most sought-after men on the platform to-day.

The stories of the terrible treatment of exiles sent to inhospitable Siberia and to bleak Saghalien Island, for offenses trifling or wholly imaginary are not new, but not before have stories of human suffering almost passing belief been brought to free America by a Russian of noble birth, who has held a high official position in the Russian war office, and is therefore in a position to speak of the oppressive bureaucracy of Russia from a personal knowledge of all its intricate workings.

Alexander M. Lochwitzky, LL. D., late lieutenant-colonel and chief of bureau of Russian war office, is the only son of the late General Michael Lochwitzky, who for thirty-six years was one of the assistants to the Russian minister of war. His late mother was born Countess Nikitine. Both his parents were of the oldest families of Russian aristocracy, families dating back to the beginning of the twelfth century. He was married to the Countess Anastasia of Luxemburg, daughter of the late Count Waldemar of Luxemburg, counselor of the court.

In May, 1897, the Colonel was arrested as a "suspect" belonging to a "Socialist party" and on the technical charge of founding a free school, a school in which the peasants could have the advantages of a common education for their children without the interference of the priests of the Greek Church, he was thrown into the dungeon of the Fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul at St. Petersburg, held for fifteen months in solitary seclusion, denied any knowledge of his family, his large estate confiscated, tortured to make him confess things he had never dreamed of doing, divorced from his wife, and was without trial, sent as a "political exile," guilty of "high treason," to "hard labor" for four years on the Island of Saghalien, Siberia, by the ukase of the Czar Nicholas II. After that he had to remain twelve years in exile in Siberia, but after one and one-half years spent at Vladivostok, Siberia, where he was Secretary to the British Vice-Consulate, Colonel Lochwitzky escaped to Japan, thence to China and finally to the United States, in 1904.

The Colonel has never seen any of his children from the day of his exile up to the present time. He was denied all communication with any of his relations or friends.

Three days after his arrival in the United States Colonel Lochwitzky took out his first naturalization papers, and is now an American citizen. He only hopes to spend the remainder of his days under the Stars and Stripes, where political freedom is the birthright of all and where the bureaucratic oppression of the Middle Ages is unknown, though he says, "I believe that I am still shadowed by Russian spies, who are relentless and will get me if they can. They have poisoned me three times, and once they got at me through the window of my study in San Francisco. But I thank God that I am today in the United States, where the people are free and stand for fair play."

Colonel Lochwitzky lectures at the local Chautauqua on "A Russian Nobleman's Story of Siberian Exile and

MANAGER OF CEREAL PLANT VISITS SITE OF FACTORY

Francis E. Walsh, manager of the Utah Cereal Food company, paid his first visit to Ogden today and he stated that he was pleased with the city and surroundings. He went to the site for the cereal food plant on Pacific avenue and Twenty-eighth street and said that it was ideal in every respect. Mr. Walsh was accompanied by Lon J. Haddock who has been engaged in soliciting stock for the company.

Due to the excellent transportation facilities and the central location in the intermountain states, Mr. Walsh looks upon Ogden as the very best place for the cereal factory and he stated that there is no question as to the ultimate success of the enterprise.

He could not say just when the plant would be in operation, only that he anticipated that it would be doing business here in the early part of next year. Local architects have not yet been conferred with, but that will be done within the next few days. It was inferred that as soon as President M. S. Browning returns from the east, immediate steps would be taken toward getting contracts for the construction of the building.

Mr. Walsh inquired of the progress that is being made on the proposed can factory and when told that bids for the construction would be considered in the early part of July, he said that even if his plant was not contracted for by that time he was certain that it would be the first of the two to be completed and that it would be turning out its product first.

Both Mr. Walsh and Mr. Haddock stated that ample money was on hand to begin construction work.

The plant is planned to cost in the neighborhood of $75,000, and that amount of money is ready at the present time. It is said that the company will have a working capital of about $150,000.

Manager Walsh is of the opinion that the grains of northern Utah and southern Idaho are the best in the entire country. He contends that the oats and wheat which he has inspected in this section contain the

VILLA TO FIGHT WAY INTO MEXICO

Will Take Burden of Defeat if Huerta Without Regard to Carranza.

Tracks Heavily Mined—Troops Continue to Move South to San Luis Potosi.

Eagle Pass, June 27.—No signs that a definite understanding has been reached with the object of healing the breach between General Carranza and General Villa has been apparent at Carranza's headquarters, according to travelers who arrived today from Saltillo and Monterrey.

The utmost secrecy was maintained at Carranza's headquarters regarding developments and a strict censorship was enforced, they said. Traffic between Saltillo and Torreon has been somewhat interrupted for several days and it was rumored, the arrivals said, that the railroad tracks had been heavily mined. The commanders of the constitutionalists in the east and south continue to visit Saltillo for conferences with General Carranza and troops continue to be moved south from that point toward San Luis Potosi.

It was reported, said the travelers, that General Villa had expressed the intention of taking the burden of the defeat of Huerta on his shoulders and that he was prepared to fight his own way into Mexico City without regard to what Carranza proposed to do. What the plans of General Carranza may be in view of this statement are unknown.
